A Message from the MCP Chief Operating Officer

Dear MCP Family,

Words seem to fall short when trying to address the pain and frustration that so many are feeling right now with the racial injustice and violence sweeping the country. My heart goes out to the families of these victims and to the business owners that are also hurting from the violent protests, along with a pandemic situation to boot.

These tragic moments provide us all with an opportunity to learn and better understand what our co-workers, colleagues, and communities experience. We have the right to find meaningful and peaceful ways to show solidarity in standing against racism and the pursuit of equality.

MCP was founded 36 years ago to offer services and solutions to individuals with disabilities and their families no matter their heritage, education level, religious views, financial situation, or background. From its very beginnings, MCP has embraced and encouraged diversity in forming its network of staff and in harvesting relationships with the people we support and their families.

As a family and service provider, MCP has always believed that our agency and communities derive their strength, cohesiveness, and prosperity, as a function of their diversity. Today, more than ever, we remain committed to promoting unity, equality, peace, and understanding as we build a stronger community and a better future.

At MCP, we give racism the boot! And remain committed to this cause.

Sincerely,

Marta E. Morin
Chief Operating Officer
